1.The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2.Claims 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Durr (6,446,270) as set forth in the previous Office action.

3.Claims 1-11 and 25-33 are allowed.

4.Applicant's arguments filed May 25, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the liner 118 of Durr is not a magazine in that a magazine is used for storing microcomponents, which is expressed in claim 12 by the term packaging. This is not persuasive because the liner 118 acts as a magazine by being a holder for rigid shell 120 during the conduct of the process.

It is also argued that a prima facie case of obviousness has not been made because it has not been shown that a person of ordinary skill in the art, seeking to solve the problem of how to prefabricate and package microstructure molded parts replicatively using a prefabricated magazine, would reasonably be expected or motivated to look to a method for producing a football helmet. But, to the examiner, it appears that applicant is seeking a narrower interpretation of the instant claim language than is actually required since one of ordinary skill in the art would have been aware that there would be a tendency for even a molded helmet to reproduce on its surface the complement of any microstructure or texture present on the surface of the mold being used.

Applicant's arguments concerning the liner 118 being made of flexible material, and the aspect that the flexible liner is peeled away from the helmet, such that the helmet carries the liner are noted by the examiner. But it is unclear to the examiner as to the relevance of these arguments, when viewed in light of the instant claims at issue, particularly given that the liner is retained for use in molding additional helmets, as discussed at column 7, lines 31-33.

Applicant's argument that the amendment to claim 12 indicates that the plurality of microstructure molded parts are prepared utilizing the prefabricated magazine and that Durr cannot teach or suggest the same since the mold of the reference is used to prepare a single helmet is also noted by the examiner. But the language of claim 12 appears to be readable on a situation where the plurality of parts is formed by repeatedly molding a single part. It is noted by the examiner that clause b. of claim 12 requires the demolding of "one magazine/molded part composite" and that clause d. of that claim only requires the reuse of the magazine to produce "at least one additional microstructured part".

5.THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
